

How much do tray and cable tray accessories cost

Article Overview

Cable trays typically range from $10 to $200 per meter depending on type and material, while accessories like splicers, hold-downs, and cover clamps range from $2 to $50 each.

Cable Tray Pricing

The cost of cable trays varies based on type, material, and load capacity:

- o Ladder Trays: Strong, open design for heavy-duty cables; prices generally range from $50 to $200 per meter depending on steel or stainless steel construction and size .
- o Perforated Trays: Solid base with holes for moderate airflow; typically $30 to $100 per meter .
- o Solid Bottom Trays: Fully enclosed for maximum protection; often $60 to $180 per meter, ideal for harsh environments like chemical plants .
- o Channel Trays: Narrow, U-shaped for small bundles or tight spaces; usually $10 to $50 per meter . Material choice affects cost: stainless steel is more expensive but offers superior corrosion resistance and durability, while galvanized steel or aluminum is more cost-effective for standard installations .

Cable Tray Accessories Pricing

Accessories enhance functionality and safety of cable tray systems:

- o Cable Tray Splicers: Join two tray sections; prices range from $5 to $20 each .
- o Hold-Downs: Secure trays in high-vibration areas; typically $5 to $30 each .
- o Cover Clamps: Keep tray covers in place to protect cables; usually $2 to $15 each .
- o Gutter Connectors, Connecting Plates, Separating Strips, Protective Rings: Prices vary by size and material, generally $3 to $50 per piece .

Additional Considerations

- o Installation and Maintenance: Open-style trays allow better airflow and easier cable access, which can reduce long-term maintenance costs .
- o Future Expansion: It is recommended to select trays with 20-30% extra capacity to accommodate additional cables without replacing the system .
- o Compliance: Ensure trays meet standards like DIN EN 61537, IEC, or NEC for safety and performance . By considering type, material, and accessory needs, you can estimate the total cost for a cable tray system tailored to your industrial, commercial, or residential project.
